GOOD TURNOUT AT C OF C MEETING

ARTHUR WARD ELECTED NEW PRESIDENT

On Wednesday, June 5th., the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce held their 14th annual Chamber meeting in the High School Auditorium in Haliburton.

Guest speaker for the evening was Mr. Rod Thompson, Projects Manager of the Canadian Tourist Association. Mr. Thompson said in addressing the audience, "More Money should be spent on the care of the guests and less on the invitation. The lack of imagination in planning is still evident at many tourist establishments."

NILA REYNOLDS' BOOK ON HALIBURTON NOW AVAILABLE

The first copies of Nila Reynolds book "In Quest of Yesterday" arrived last week at the Chambers office. Mrs. Reynold is a Haliburton native who now resides in Oshawa.

The interesting book is financed by the Haliburton County Council and is being distributed by the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce. Copies may be purchased from the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce Information Booth on Hwy. 35 at Minden as well as many retail outlets in the County. The retail price is $3.95.

The author received the first copy of the book at the Chamber's annual meeting on June 5 at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School.

The book contains references to many interesting stories about the history and families of Haliburton County. Many interesting local pictures are also featured in the book.

Any merchants or resort owners wishing to sell this book are asked to contact Mr. Norm Craig at the Chamber office, Minden Phone 88.

The new directors of the Chamber were chosen, they are as follows: Murray Agnew, Gordon Barr, Lorne Coburn, Wallace Co-oke, Ronald Curry, Mrs. Gerald Dawson, Bruce Henry, Ray Hyde, Sidney Jennings, Mrs. Richard Kirkwood, Mervyn Robertson, John Smith, Kenneth Wilson, Carm Wright, Arthur Ward. The latter, Mr. Ward, owner of Wig-A-Mog Inn was elected President for the 1968-69 season at a Directors meeting this week. Mr. Gordon Barr of Gooderham was elected Vice-President.

Rummage Sale to be held at Club 35 on Saturday June 22nd. 1968, at Club 35, under the auspices of St. Stephen's Ladies' Guild. Time 2 until 5 p.m.

DYSART TOWNSHIP SCHOOL AREA BOARD HELD ANNUAL MEETING AT SIR SAM'S INN

The Dysart Township School Area Board held their annual Banquet at Sir Sam's Inn on Saturday evening, June 1st, to which the teachers, custodians, bus drivers and supply teachers and their spouses were invited. The Guest Speaker was excellent and gave us an eye-opening account of the great strides in education, both those which have already taken place and those yet to come.

MR. T. H. HOUGHTON, B.A. M.Ed. Assistant Superintendent of the Ontario Department of Education was the Speaker and it was a real honour to have both him and his charming wife visit us on this occasion. He informed us that in 1967 there were 1,800,000 pupils being educated in elementary and secondary schools throughout Ontario. In 1945 there were 666,000. Statistics show that in the year 2,000 there will be 40,000,000 people living in Canada and by 1986 35% of all people in the world will be under 15 years of age.

It is being planned that a public meeting will be held in the Autumn with a speaker who understands the new county-wide School Board set up so that parents and teachers may understand what is being done here in Haliburton.

Mr. Nelson Ward introduced the speaker and Mr. Len Salvatori thanked him. Mrs. Doreen Stinson asked the Blessing, and Mr. Dennis Baker thanked the School Board for inviting the teachers to share in the Banquet. Following the banquet and speeches the guests gathered in the sing-song with Mrs. Wendy Hicks at the piano.

SCUBA DIVERS SEEK BODY OF SCARBORO MAN

Scuba divers are assisting in the search for the body of a 39-year-old Scarborough man who is believed to have drowned Sunday morning in South Lake, three miles east of Minden.

Police said the man, John D'Arcy Bell of Scarborough reportedly left his cottage early Sunday morning in his canoe to go fishing. The canoe was found capsized about 10 a.m.

Minden OPP said the man had left in the canoe before his wife and five children were up Sunday morning, but they could not be sure of the exact time he went fishing.

The search operations are being headed up by Minden OPP Corporal John Dunn and Constable Barry Connelly.

The first copy of the new publication "In Quest of Yesterday" a history of Haliburton County, was presented to the author, Mrs. Nila Reynolds, by Haliburton Chamber of Commerce president John Hill at the 14th. annual meeting of the Chamber Wednesday evening. Looking on is Mrs. Laura Kirkwood of Minden, who assisted in gathering and researching material for the book.

HERE AND THERE

Was sorry to hear of Sgt. Jack Eastwood's transfer from Minden. "Jack" was a courteous and efficient officer and his staff reflected his leadership in the way they carried out their duties. He'll be missed as he was interested in the community and assisted in many enterprises.

The many friends of Les. Winch were pleased to welcome him back from the hospital in Bancroft where he was nursing some cuts and bruises from a motor accident. As Les. Sez, "I'm a tough nut to crack — looks like I'll just naturally wear out!"

Several readers have given me tips on what they'd like the community to think about. Let's start with my good friend John Hewitt — John was quite interested to read in the Progress a couple of weeks ago that the "Vankoughnet Road" is finally coming to life. The point about the road that made John wonder was the name — since it is coming through the Highlands of Haliburton and is to be a projection of the "Peterson Road" why not call it the "New Peterson Road? Maybe the Chamber of Commerce could answer John — How about it Norman?

When it comes to quick and efficient service — you can't beat our Municipal Council and Earl Hewitt and his minions. Even before they received the odd letter of protest and were mentioned in this column they had the street in question, torn up, and well on the way to repair. You just can't beat service like that. As usual, Earl's boys did a bang-up job on the repairs.

Met Mr. and Mrs. James Matalas over the week-end. They are very interesting people (She's gonna hate me for this.) Instead of being a cynical, rough and ready sparring partner I found Mrs. M. to be very courteous and with a marvellous sense of humour. Over the past six years she and her husband have been residents of the Minden area they are staunch boosters and woe betide anyone — but ANYONE — who does or sez anything to lower the image of the community. I'd rather pick up a wildcat by the tail than Mrs. M. when this happens. Don't say you haven't been warned.

Mrs. Molly Noice had quite a good idea. It fits in with the "Beautify Minden." We have a prize in the Winter for the best decorated house during Carnival week. Molly sez, "Why not a 'Garden Beautiful' prize in the summer — and, apparently we have some nice ones.

Speaking of beautifying a Community. The residents of Kinmount are happy with their new post office, but they are unhappy with the way the grounds were left. They lost a beautiful little park and have a new building sitting in a pile of "slag". Apparently nothing they can say or do helps the mess.

Talking to Lorne Coburn our genial Druggist he was telling me the Ontario Pharmacists' Association is back-ign the Canadian Olympics in Mexico. Space wont permit me to fill you in completely — best thing you can do is see Lorne and he'll fill you in — locally he suggested we could form a "waist lifter's Club."

That's it for this week — help out the Olympics and remember our slogan — "Be an Athletic Supporter."

INVITATION TO LIVE CRUSADE

For the third consecutive year a group of churches are co-operating together in a Crusade for Christ blaketing the Highlands

This year a different speaker has been invited in the person of the Rev. Marney Patterson. Mr. Patterson is an ordained Anglican clergyman working under the approval of Bishop George B. Snell and the General Synod of the Anglican church.

Before entering the ministry Mr. Patterson was a disc jockey and broadcaster, giving him experience in the art of communication — a fact which is evident in his ministry.

From the Crusades of the past two years we know that this type of service will find a good response among the local people.

Again this year there will be an active choir and lively congregational singing under the directorship of Mr. Wm. McCaul.

A baby sitting sedvice will be provided for the convenience of parents with young children.

In preparation for the Crusade ten Household Fellowship Groups have been meeting throughout the county and much time and effort has been expended by the various committees. Advertising has been carried out through the press, mailings television and radio.

In a departure from past practice the Crusade will begin on a Friday night, June 14th and continue nightly until Sunday, June 23rd. The meetings, starting at 8 p.m., will be preceded by a 15 minute hymn sing. Although the High School auditorium has plenty of room, you are urged to come early and get the best seat.

BE WATER-WISE AND LIVE

Mr. Mark Vasey drew our attention to the fact that June 23rd to the 29th, is Red Cross Water Safety Week. Most people say, So what? We doubt whether there is a week on the calendar that isn't devoted to the promotion of some person, cause or product. Is it just possible the public is becoming hardened in its attitude?

In this case we hope not.

Every year at this time the Red Cross makes a concerted effort to remind the public about water safety. They have a special stake in the saving of lives whether it's through a blood transfusion or teaching a youngster how to swim properly.

We have a stake in this business too. As a newspaper editor, summer is the one season I dread. If you've ever covered a drowning story you'll know what I mean.

If you've ever stood on the shore with dazed parents while a boat slowly drags for their young son, you'll know what I mean.

It is not the most pleasant job in the world, writing about one of the boys or girls you know, or who you have seen running the streets with other children in your community. Or seeking out the facts about a young couple whose holiday ended in tragedy.

We have to report the carnage on the roads and the drownings throughout the summer. After a while they just become numbers but still you wonder if something can't be done to really hit home, about water safety.

This past week we all mourned Sen. Robt. Kennedy's death — because we all knew him. Just imagine all the mourning we would have to do if we knew the 1,237 people the Red Cross drowning statistics show, who lost their lives last year in the water. They estimate that figure will be matched again this year, and unless we use extreme caution these figures could go higher. In effect a small community of people will virtually be wiped off the map.

The only thing we can do is ask you how pertinent is water safety to your own well-being? Chances are if you are planning any kind of a vacation this summer it will take you near water. In that case it does involve you, your family and people you might not even know.

The week of June 23 to 29 is Red Cross Water Safety Week. All we ask is that you start now, and stretch it out a little to include the whole summer.

Let me put it this way. If you've got any sympathy for a "hard nosed" editor, prove it by letting me enjoy this summer for once. Use your head, learn the safety rules, and above all have plenty of respect for the water.

I simply don't like writing obituaries — especially yours.

DOLLARS AND GOOD SENSE

by William J. Martin

Dear Sir: Like everybody else, I suppose, I have a lot of bills to pay every month, and sometimes I fall a little behind. From time to time, I see advertisements for "debt consolidation" as a way to get out from under these bills. I've looked into debt consolidation and as far as I can see this is just piling more debt on top of the debts I already have. Am I right?

S.C.

Like most everything else, there are two sides to the "debt consolidation" story; so let's take a look at the whole story, beginning with what debt consolidation actually is. Let's suppose that you have about 10 outstanding debts for credit purchases which you made — a television, refrigerator, clothes, appliances, etc. You are making monthly payments on these purchases and — understand — paying interest, carrying or monthly service charges on each. Debt consolidation is when you borrow enough money from a lending institution — bank or consumer finance company — to pay off all these existing obligations. Then you have only one bill outstanding each month, a loan on which you will also have to pay interest and most likely at a higher rate than you were paying for the individual credit purchases (It is even possible that your actual dollar interest payments on the one loan will be smaller than the total of lesser interest charges on all your credit purchases — but don't count on it.) In this case, you are not getting out from under your bills, of course. You are simply exchanging a collection of smaller debts for one larger debt. But debt consolidation is not designed to get you out from under. It is designed as a budgeting tool to enable you to pay debts that you couldn't ordinarily meet.

Here's what I mean. Suppose you are to make $10 payments on each of those 10 obligations you have. That means you have to come up with $100 each and every month. By taking out a consolidation loan, you can pay off all 10 obligations of the loan will, no doubt run longer than the terms of the other obligations, but the point is this: with a debt consolidation loan, you can meet your obligations (you need only $60 a month). Unless you consolidate, you may not be able to make your payments ($100 a month), perhaps be forced to default and suffer irreparable damage to your credit rating. One side of the story is this: debt consolidation will most likely cost you money in the long run. The other side is: debt consolidation is a means of helping you pay debts you might otherwise not be able to pay. Now, as for your question "was I right?" Well, you be the judge.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

To whom it may concern. I Ernest Langley of Donald, Ontario, have been disturbed on weekends with people waking me up, asking me if I am a certain party selling liquor.

I have been to the Police about this in Minden, so far nothing has been done, only promises have been made to me by the police, as to what they might do, and by the same token, I have some members of the police force of Minden, accusing me and my father-in-law of being thieves of stealing wood. It seems strange to me that this bootlegging would go unnoticed by the police for so long.

We would like to have some action taken, and taken fast. As citizens of this county, we would like to have the police working for us, instead of against us.

Thanking you,

Ernest Langley.

SPLASH PARTY FOR TEENS

It looks like a big time in a big pool of the teen-agers of the county. The Henrys of Halimar have invited all teens to come down for a big splash in their heated pool on Monday, June 17th at 2.00 P.M. What better way is there to celebrate the end of another gruelling school year.

Following the splash party the young people are invited to take part in a rip-roaring bull session with Marney Patterson, a former disc jockey and broadcaster on CHEX Peterboro and CKEY Toronto.

We'll Be Stuck With Our Habits
— So They Better Be Good

The following conversation was actually heard in a dining car. Elderly gentleman, apparently a doctor, to woman of 40 sitting across the table, "You had better eat more breakfast than that. Why don't you have some porridge?"

When I'm 65 and don't care any more about putting on a few pounds," was the reply, "I intend to have porridge every morning — with cream."

The doctor looked interested.

"How long have you been watching your diet to keep your figure in line," he asked.

"Since I was 14," she replied.

"Then let me tell you something," he said. "You will still be watching your waistline at 85. We do not forsake the habits of a life time at 65 or 70." What the doctor said is even more true about behaviour than about diet. One cannot be selfish and unloveable until time to get the old age pension and then turn on charm and become loveable.

At a meeting where housing and medical care of older people was the subject of discussion, an intrepid young doctor said, as nearly as we recall, "A lot of old people are disagreeable. I think they should be told that others don't have to put up with this, and if they want to be visited by friends and relatives, or live in their homes, they have to behave themselves."

The difficulty is that the very people who merit such a rebuke are the ones whom many of us hesitate to cross. Instead we avoid them and they feel abused. It is fairly likely that those of us who live until we are three score and ten years of age will have our lonely times. We are not likely to be as mobile as we are now. The fact sticks out a mile that sooner or later we are going to have to depend quite a bit on strangers for companionship and a feeling that someone cares about us.

What also sticks out a mile is that we are only going to get these desirable things if people like being around us, if they find us cheerful, interesting company.

There's not a minute to be lost making ourselves that sort of person.

CANADIAN MUSEUMS WEEK

The National Museums of Canada are going all out to celebrate Canadian Museums Week in Ottawa May 26 to June 2.

Special displays are being planned to focus the spotlight on museum work and its value to the public.

Summer hours are in effect for evening visits.

Here are some of the displays: Outstanding examples of Eskimo sealskin and soapstone prints and sculpture in terracotta soapstone, ivory and whalebone.

A replica of the Nobel Prize medal of former Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson.

A selection of interesting and colourful minerals from various parts of Canada.

The Museum-sponsored National Collection of Nature Photographs.

An exhibit of live snakes, salamanders, frogs, turtles and newts.

A map illustrating museum-supported field work throughout Canada.

A display of old and valuable books from the library of the National Museums of Canada.

Opening of the Governor-General's private railway cars of the 1925-67 period.

Examples of newly-acquired tribal art from Africa.

The four National Museums of Canada will be participating in the special displays. The National Museum of Man, and the National Museum of Natural Sciences, both located in the Victoria Memorial Museum building at Metcalfe and McLeod Streets, have opened the mezzanine floor and the lobby for their showing. Here the public will see Eskimo art, the special mineral display of living creatures and other exhibits.

At the National Museum of Science and Technology, the Governors-General's railway cars will be opened to public view.

The National Gallery of Canada has recently acquired three valuable pieces of sculpture and a rare early landscape drawing by Vincent van Gogh. Regarded by the Gallery as perhaps the most important piece of sculpture to enter their collection, is a full-length Dancer in white marble by the noted sculptor Antonio Canova.

The Canadian War Museum, 350 Sussex Drive will be open as well as the National Aeronautical Collection at Rockcliffe and the Uplands Airport Terminal Building annex.

In addition to the exhibitions, a film series will run for five nights — May 27 to 31 inclusive — which will stress museums and historic buildings and places throughout the world. Each program will begin at 8.15 p.m.

The Eskimo sealskin and soapstone prints and the Eskimo sculpture include some of the finest examples of Eskimo art available anywhere. Each piece has been carefully selected from the museum's fine collection. They range in size from the very small to examples almost two feet in height.

The mineral specimens include precious and semi-precious gemstones such as garnet and amazonite, as well as ores of native gold and copper.

Museums Week is sponsored by the International Council of Museums, a Paris-based organization to promote international co-operation between member museums. ICOM also organizes international meetings and seminars which promotes an exchange of ideas and information.

TREE PLANTING

The district spring planting program has been completed for this year. 1,255,000 trees were planted under four programs with the purpose of providing future raw material for the wood working industry.

The four programs consisted of:
1. Planting on Crown lands where the Department furnishes the trees and does the planting.
2. Private Land Forestry where the landowner with an area of two acres or more purchases the trees from the Department at the cost of $10.00 a thousand and is responsible for the planting and care of the trees. The Department will furnish professional advice as to the species to be planted and the care from disease and insects.

ARE YOU PAYING MORE TAXES AND ENJOYING IT LESS?

ALLAN MCPHAIL SHARES YOUR CONCERN THAT WE'RE ALL PAYING TAXES ON AN UNFAIR BASIS.

The last government (T) spent a lot of your money on the Carter Commission which reported that the heavy tax burden should be shifted from your shoulders to corporations and other groups which are better able to carry it.

Allan McPhail will ask Ottawa for you when this is going to happen.

WOODS, WATERS AND WILDLIFE

By James Woodford

Ontario is larger than most countries. It stretches a thousand miles from north to south and another thousand east to west. And yet, the pace of population growth in southern Ontario is such that we are now reaching levels of intensity of land use which approach those of the more highly developed European countries, which we think of as being over-populated.

This rapid transformation of southern Ontario into a sprawling urban-industrial complex is expected to continue well into the 21st century. The rate at which the province is undergoing growth and change is challenging our capacity to understand fully the many implications to plan with sufficient skill to guide it in desirable directions, and to adjust our institutions and organizations to accommodate it.

The challenge over large parts of Ontario now, and even more so in the future, according to the Federation of Ontario Naturalists is to manage resources primarily to maintain and enhance environmental quality objectives, rather than to provide raw materials; and to give more recognition to the importance of aesthetic values.

This fundamental change in the role of natural resources can be seen in the major resource-oriented problems that are perceived as important, particularly in southern Ontario. These include growing concern about widespread pollution (water, air and soil), the stress placed in some circles on the need to preserve variety in the surrounding countryside, the large demand for ready access to diverse outdoor recreational facilities, and the striving by planners for more rational spacing and grouping of human activities through proper regional planning.

Mounting pressures on man's natural environment are precipitating increased public concern and alarm which desperately needs channeling into intelligent action. The Federation of Ontario Naturalists believe that the time has come for a bold and concerted effort to:

1. Ensure a libale and attractive environment, for this and future generations.

2. Provide adequate parks, wilderness and other facilities for outdoor recreation and enjoyment.

3. Preserve samples of the mosaic of natural areas in Ontario.

Ultimately, much of the responsibility for carrying out programs to acheive these objectives lies with the various levels of government. But, government action comes only when an informed public demands the necessary programs and expenditures.

POLICE TRYING TO IDENTIFY COBY SKELETON

Provincial police are still trying to identify a skelton found in Balsam Lake Provincial Park in Coboconk in mid-December.

Officials in Toronto released a sketch made from the skelton as well as a skelton found in a hedgerow between two fields near Schomberg, about 30 miles north of Toronto. Police said circumstances surrounding the two skeletons are similar.

Police believe the skeletons are the remains of youths killed by a sex maniac. In both cases the victims' hands were tied behind their backs.
